Spirit Staff

We, the Spirit Staff, being of sound mind, having combined the contents of this 1959 Spirit under the direction of one Nancy Anderson, do hereby bequeath the product of our efforts to you, the students and friends of Ames High. The following is a testimony of the duties performed in the compiling of the book:

All organizations and activities were written about by the copy department.

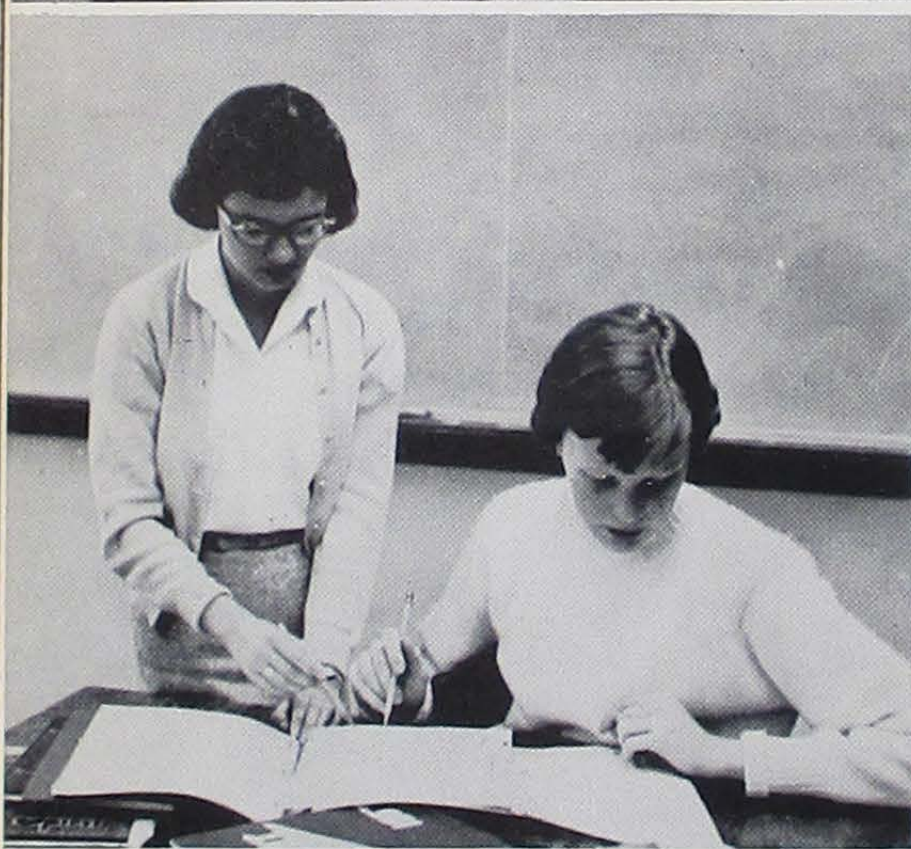

Sports reported on all athletic functions.

Layouts were designed by the art department.

The advertising of the different businesses was arranged for by the ad department.

The business manager, along with the sponsor, kept a balance between income and expenses.

Superintendent and School Board Plan for Increased Enrollment

Within the next few years many of the present Ames High students will be attending a new high school in the north-central part of Ames.

A bond issue of eight hundred thousand dollars was passed during the fall for the construction of the first part of a senior high school. Nineteen classrooms for science, shop, industrial art, home-ec, art and other senior academic classes will be built. An additional four classrooms will be temporarily used for elementary.

The school will be built on a connected modified campus type basis which makes it possible to build in stages for the increase in enrollment. The present plans include a building large enough for 1,220 students.

The need for a new high school has resulted in the enrollment increase. This year to take care of the crowded conditions in the high school, classrooms were rented from the Christian Church and a house next to the school was converted into an electrical shop.

Principal Herbert Adams

Familiar to every Ames High student this past year was the sound of chimes coming over the sound system followed by a voice that said, "We have a few announcements this morning." The voice, as every student knows, belonged to our principal, Mr. Herbert Adams. He is the one who coordinated the schedules and activities of over 700 students and 44 teachers. To him go all the headaches of running a high school. But somehow, in all these things, he manages to bring order out of chaos. To him goes much of the credit for making Ames High School one of the finest schools in the state of Iowa.

Students Serve in Cafeteria

Along about 11:00 in the morning when any healthy student began to get that certain hollow, hungry feeling in the pit of his stomach, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Moreland, and Mrs. Erickson were busy in the cafeteria kitchen preparing the noon meal. A menu for the entire week was posted in every homeroom on Monday of each week, and a count of cafeteria diners was taken in homeroom each day. This enabled the students to know what was to be served and the cooks to know how much to prepare.

Helping the cooks were thirteen students who got their meals free in return. After the cooks had the meal ready to serve, some of the students dished it out, others were in charge of the cash register, and the boys helped with the clean-up. With the increase of students and the increase in the cafeteria line, efforts were made to speed up the service. Students were asked to help in this by observing the following rules:

1. Please form two orderly lines.
2. If you leave the line, you must go to the end of it.
3. You will be served on the customers' side only.
4. Please don't leave chewing gum on tray or dishes.

Student Government in Action

Student Council is a laboratory in democracy. It provides opportunities for student participation in student government.

The council meets every Tuesday on a period rotation basis. Following parliamentary procedure, each weekly meeting is called to order, the minutes are read, and the treasurer's report is given. Reports are given by heads of the committees: service, assembly, social, citizenship, Homecoming, noon hour, welcoming, election, and publicity. The council then handles all old and new business before adjourning.

The Student Council committees work together on big projects such as Career Day and Back-to-School Night.

Officers of the first semester council were Dave Keller, president, Steve Burrell, vice president, and Pat Carney, secretary. Gar Smith, president, Mike Taft, vice president, and Alice Andre, secretary, led the second semester council. Dennis Wendell was appointed treasurer for both semesters.

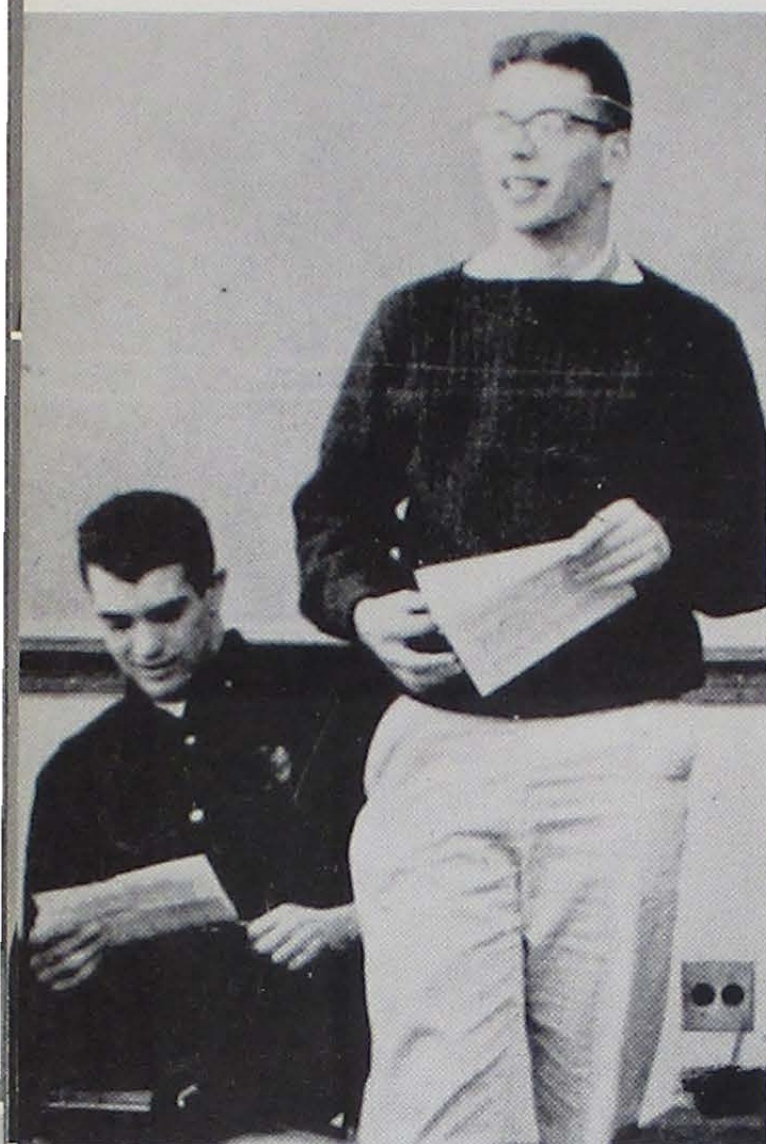

Dave Keller ran against Dave Wall, Clarke Pasley, and Steve Howell for first semester student body president in the election held last spring. Gar's opponents in the fall campaign for second semester student body president were Bill Donels, Steve Burrell, Jan Severson, and Darwin Pierce.

Council advisor is Everett Ritland.

Firesquad Enforces Student Discipline

Student discipline is enforced by Firesquad. Members issue red and white tickets to students who run in the halls, crowd in the lunch line, jerk open lockers, and misbehave otherwise.

Dave Wall and Dave Posegate, Firesquad chiefs, were in charge of the meetings held every Thursday noon. Each boy who will be on duty is assigned his post for each morning and noon during the week.

Fines levied for missing meetings and failing to be on duty are used to finance the annual Firesquad picnic.

Senior Senate selected caps and gowns, issued name cards and announcements and planned Senior Week activities for the graduating class. Members were Back: Gregg Gammack, vice president; Jim Ayres, Steve Howell, Tom Timm, Tom Gray, Steve Strand. Front: Ellen Packer, Clarke Pasley, president; Bonnie Hazel, secretary; Nancy Anderson. ## Student Treasurers Handle Thousands of Dollars

All the finances of the school organizations this year were handled by the students with the help of faculty sponsors. These students, chosen by the sponsors, were organized into the Student Treasurers. Karen Anderson was chosen to assist Miss McNally as general treasurer.

Each month the cash book from each organization was turned in to Miss McNally. Keeping the accounts straight and handling the thousands of dollars which go through the school each year made being a student treasurer valuable experience for anyone.

Miss McNally, general treasurer, and Karen M. Anderson, her assistant, decide: "Everyone has money troubles."

Girl Reserves Teaches Values

To teach those values which "exalt and refine life and bring it into accord with the standards of conduct that are approved in our democratic society" is the purpose of one of the oldest organizations in Ames High School, Girl Reserves. All girls belong.

The social events of the year which encouraged the girls to make new acquaintances were the Newcomers Party, Dad-Daughter Date Night, Mother-Daughter Tea, and the Big-Pal-Little-Pal picnic.

The money raised from selling Christmas sprays and pencils was used to help sponsor the foster child Anastasia. At Christmas time, the spirit of good will was shown to those less fortunate by providing Christmas gifts for the County Home.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Edna Wilcox, Miss Ruth Miller, and Mrs. Charlotte Whitney, the officers for first semester were: Frances McTague, president; Carole Walsh, vice president; Alice Andre, secretary; Carol Brindley, treasurer; and Nancy Anderson, president of the representatives. Officers second semester were: Carole Walsh, president; Frances McTague, vice president; Linda Roach, secretary; Carol Brindley, treasurer; and Pat Catron, president of the representatives.

High Spiritual and Moral Standards

Goal of Hi-Y

"To foster high spiritual and moral standards of daily living, and to develop responsible leaders" is the goal of Hi-Y.

The group, composed of nearly all the boys in Ames High, supported John Tzyerohlov, a Greek war orphan, and provided Christmas gifts for the men in the Story County Home.

The boys sold refreshments at the football, basketball and track events, improved the Hi-Y lounge, and held sophomore, senior, and football firesides.

The Hi-Y worked with the Girl Reserves in January on Friendship Week and on the New Comers luncheon and party at the beginning of the year.

Each boy attended his choice of a hobby group on alternate Fridays of Hi-Y group meetings. The hobby groups offered opportunities for learning aeronautics, athletics, auto mechanics, foreign affairs, hunting and fishing, music appreciation, photography, science, and electronics.

Hi-Y and Girl Reserve cabinets made their annual Christmas visit to the Story County Home with gifts for the residents.

Journalism Classes Produce Ames High Web

The Ames High School Web, written and edited by the journalism class, appears in the Ames Daily Tribune each Wednesday during the school year. The Web advertises, records, and interprets Ames High activities to the community—helping to maintain the finest type of school morals is one of its prime functions.

The 14 members of the first semester staff and the 21 members of the second semester group worked hard to make the paper accurate, up-to-the-minute, and lively.

Teacher of the class in journalism and staff adviser is Mrs. Charlotte Whitney.

Two Clubs for Aspiring Writers

Was the sophomore class hiding a future Shakespeare or O. Henry in its midst this year? Only time will tell; but if this is the case, he or she probably belonged to the sophomore Creative Writing Club. This group, organized for the first time this year, had as its aims to improve their style of writing, to learn to give and receive criticism, and to find satisfaction in spontaneous writing. To be a member, students must have had interest as well as high grades in English.

Sponsored by the sophomore English teachers, the club's officers were: Karma Schauer, president; and Marion Quinn and Jane Andrews, recording chairmen.

Beginning reporters are called "cubs." From this word Cubs Club got its name.

This organization, composed largely of sophomores this year, provided background and experience for students interested in journalism.

The members spent time and energy in putting out the first issue of the second semester Web. This was the cubs' main project.

At their meetings, usually held every other Thursday noon, the 28 cubs were taught the fundamentals of newspaper writing by their sponsor, Mrs. Charlotte Whitney.

Officers of the group were Sue McFarland, president; Pat Carney, vice president; Sue Hetzel, secretary.

Library Club Members Serve Students and Teachers

Ron Fain checks out a book from Mrs. Dickinson, school librarian.

The Ames High Library Club, under the supervision of Mrs. Elizabeth Dickinson, met each Wednesday noon in the library.

Lessons covering the many phases of work for which the girls would be responsible were studied.

The duties of the girls in charge of the desk were shelving of books and magazines, making overdue notices, aiding students in locating reference materials, and preparing bibliographies for teachers.

Each girl was required to work in the library two periods a week and at the same time maintain passing grades.

Sherri Wierson, president, and Judy Sawyer, secretary, led the group first semester. Sandy Peterson, president, and Carmen Catron, secretary, served as second semester officers.

Mrs. Dickinson feels that the members of library club are giving a service to their fellow students and to their teachers.

The advantage of learning to debate is that it teaches one to argue logically. At the weekly meetings, activities centered around debate, discussion, and extemporaneous speaking. This was how members prepared for participation in interscholastic speech tournaments and debate meets which were sponsored by the Iowa High School Forensic League throughout the year. Out of town events attended were the Brinkley Debate and Discussion, Coe College Invitational, Fort Dodge Invitational and the State finals in Iowa City.

Under the direction of Mrs. Garrett, officers were Ilo Leppik, president; Karl Fox, vice president; and Beverly Novak, secretary.

Two Language Clubs Organized This Year

The purpose of Spanish Club, newly organized under the sponsorship of Miss Sharon Roberts, was to study not only the language but also the cultural aspects of Spanish-speaking countries. Invited to many of the bi-monthly meetings were guest speakers, some of them Spanish-speaking students at Iowa State College. Members of this group must have been in one of the Spanish classes.

Officers were Steve Henderson, president; Lory Linder, vice president; Carole Hostetter, secretary; and Vicki Skortman, treasurer-program chairman.

Those students enrolled in one of the French classes who were interested in France and the French language were invited to join the French Club. The purpose of the club was to better understand France and its people through the use of books, magazines, records, guest speakers, and films. Sponsor of this club, which was one of the new ones this year, was Mrs. Billie Alexander.

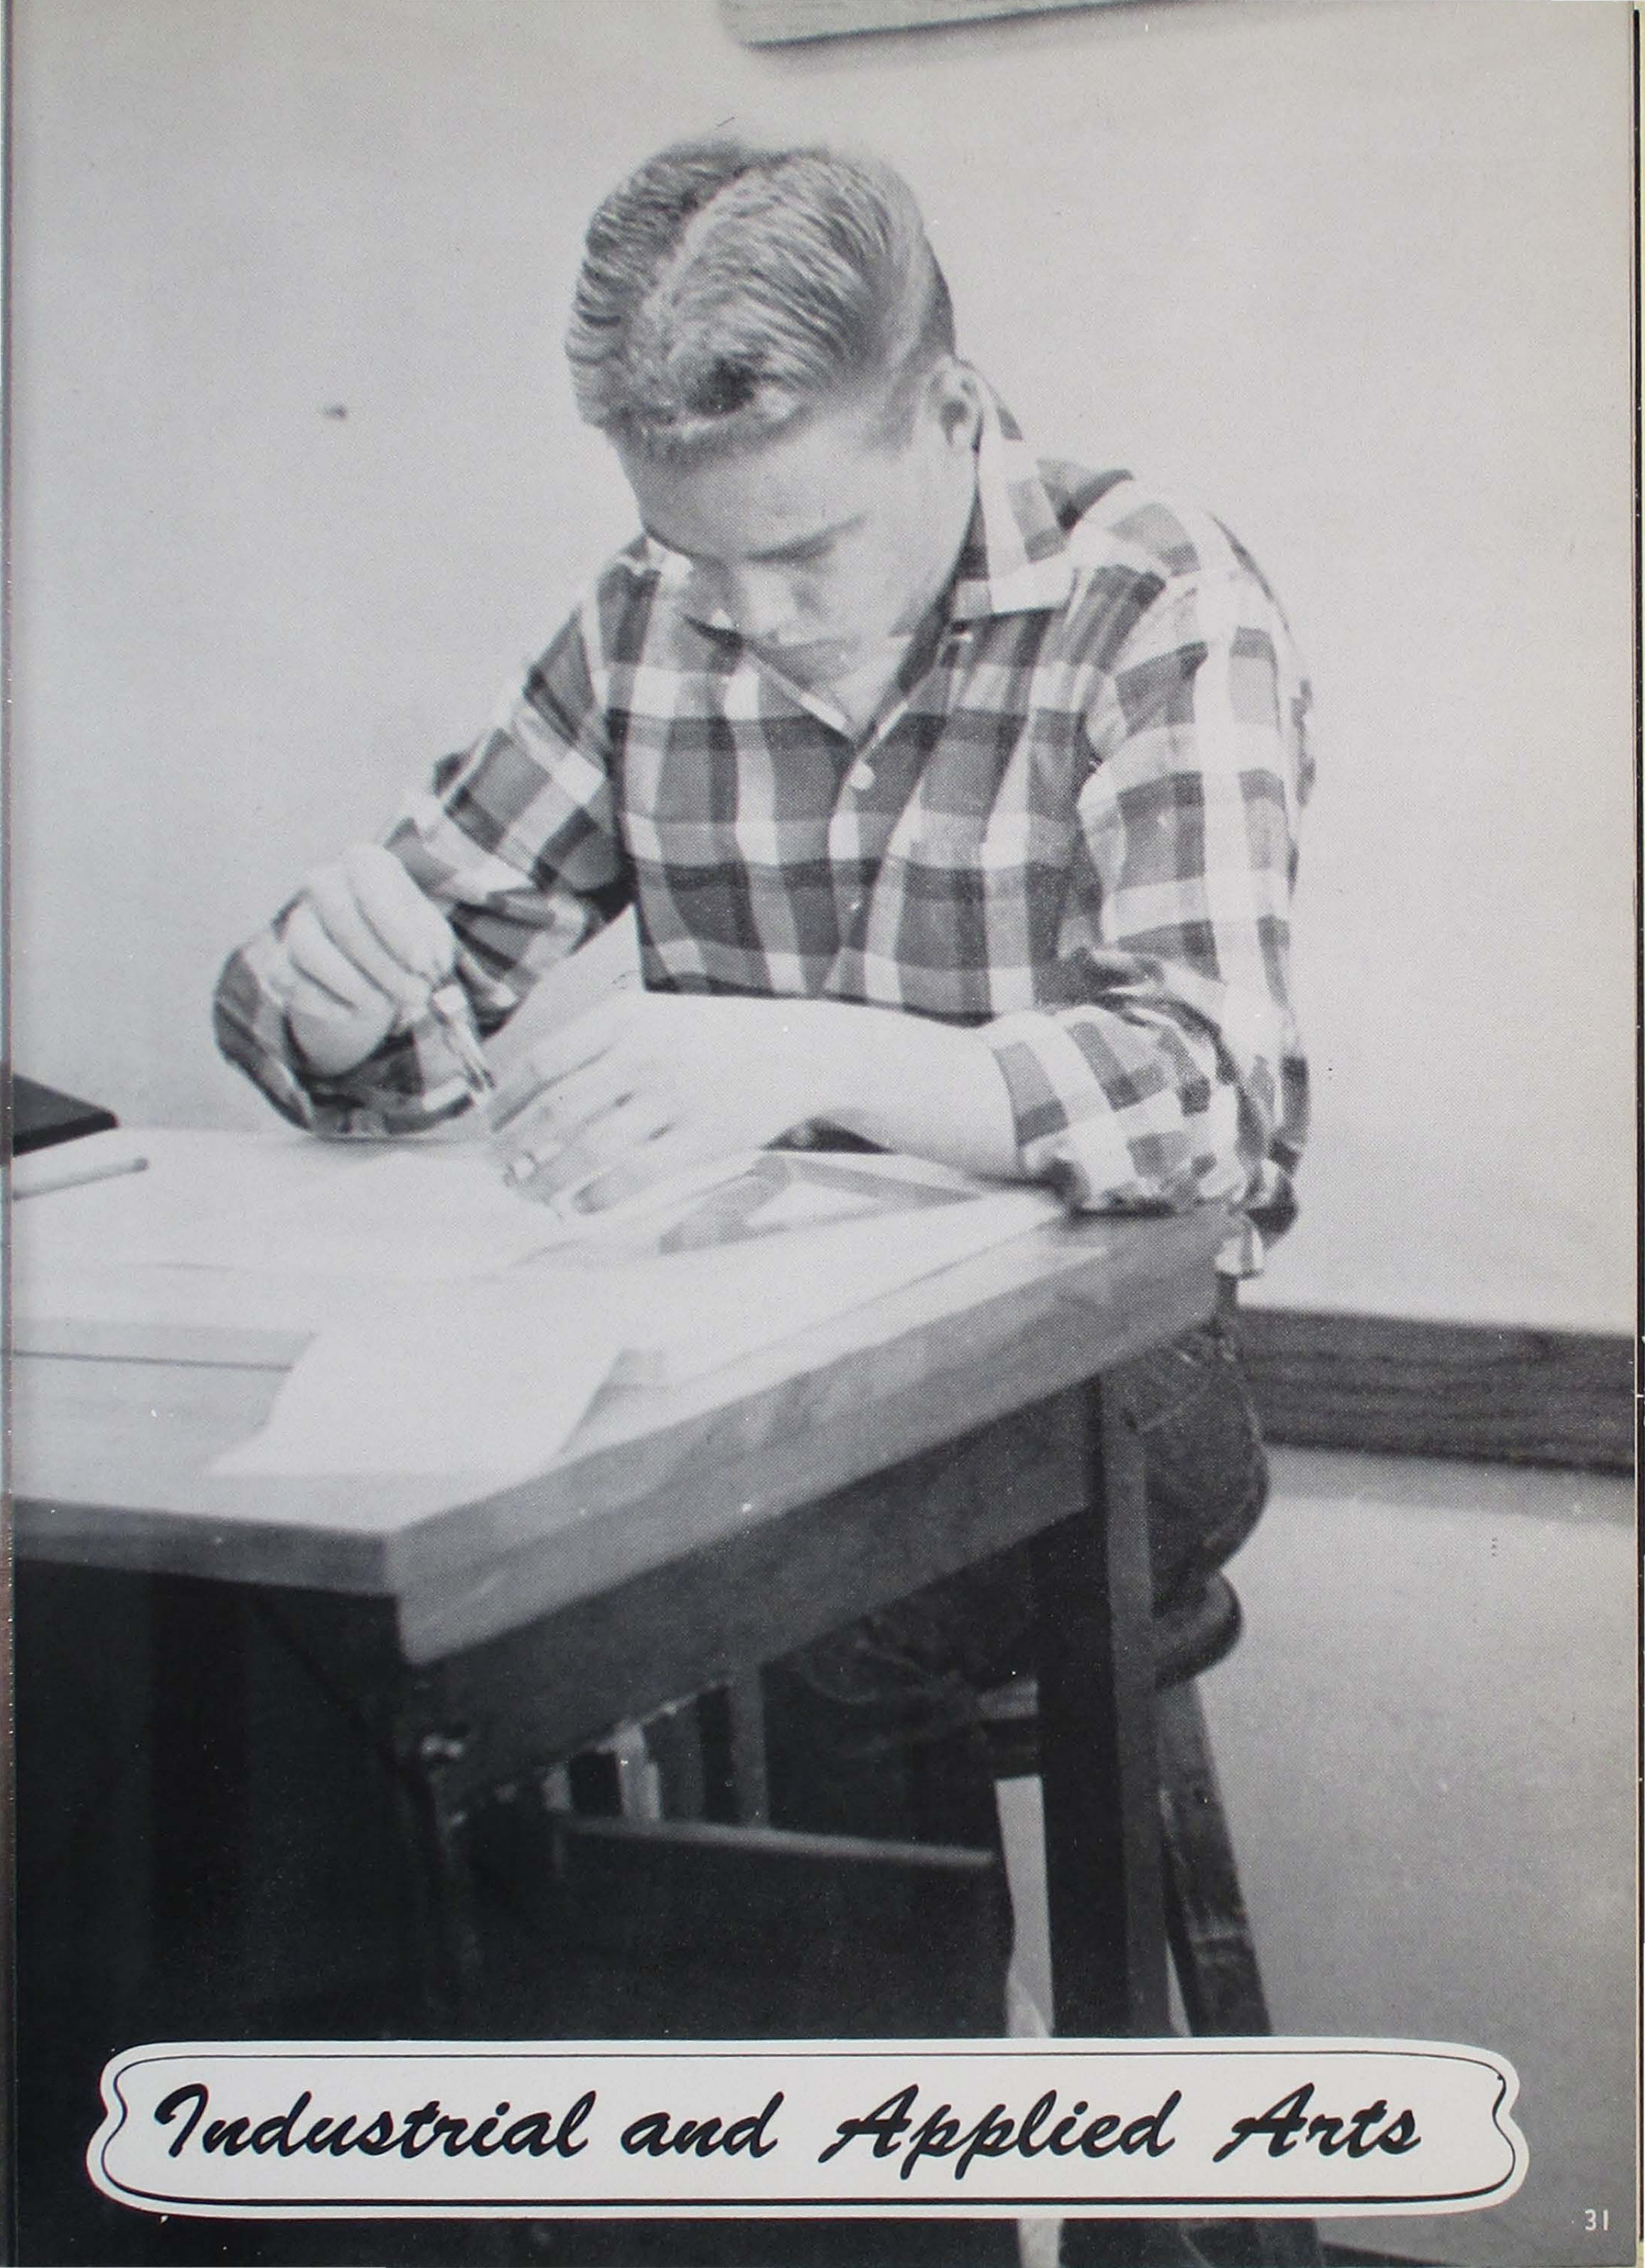

Officers were Pat Carney, president; Marilyn Runlap, vice president; Judy Rice, secretary-treasurer; and Beth Strand and Maureen McVicker, program chairmen.

D.E.C.A.

A local organization of the Distributive Education Clubs of America, known as D.E.C.A., was started in Ames High this year in connection with the co-operative training program. Students enrolled in co-op and distributive education classes were members.

D.E.C.A. seeks to encourage group participation, leadership development, and career study.

Officers this year were Winifred Hudspeth, president; Bonny Luther, vice president; and Pat Creel, secretary. Sponsor was Mr. James Overturf.

"One of the most valuable things I gained from the national F.H.A. convention was the chance to meet girls from other states, Puerto Rico, and Hawaii who attended," said Jo Boston in telling of her experiences at the convention in Kansas City as a state officer. She brought back many ideas on possible careers in home economics, on the organization of the high school F.H.A. group, and on how to do things in private life. The motto of F.H.A., which expresses the purpose, is to "learn to live better today in order that our lives and those of our families may be better tomorrow."

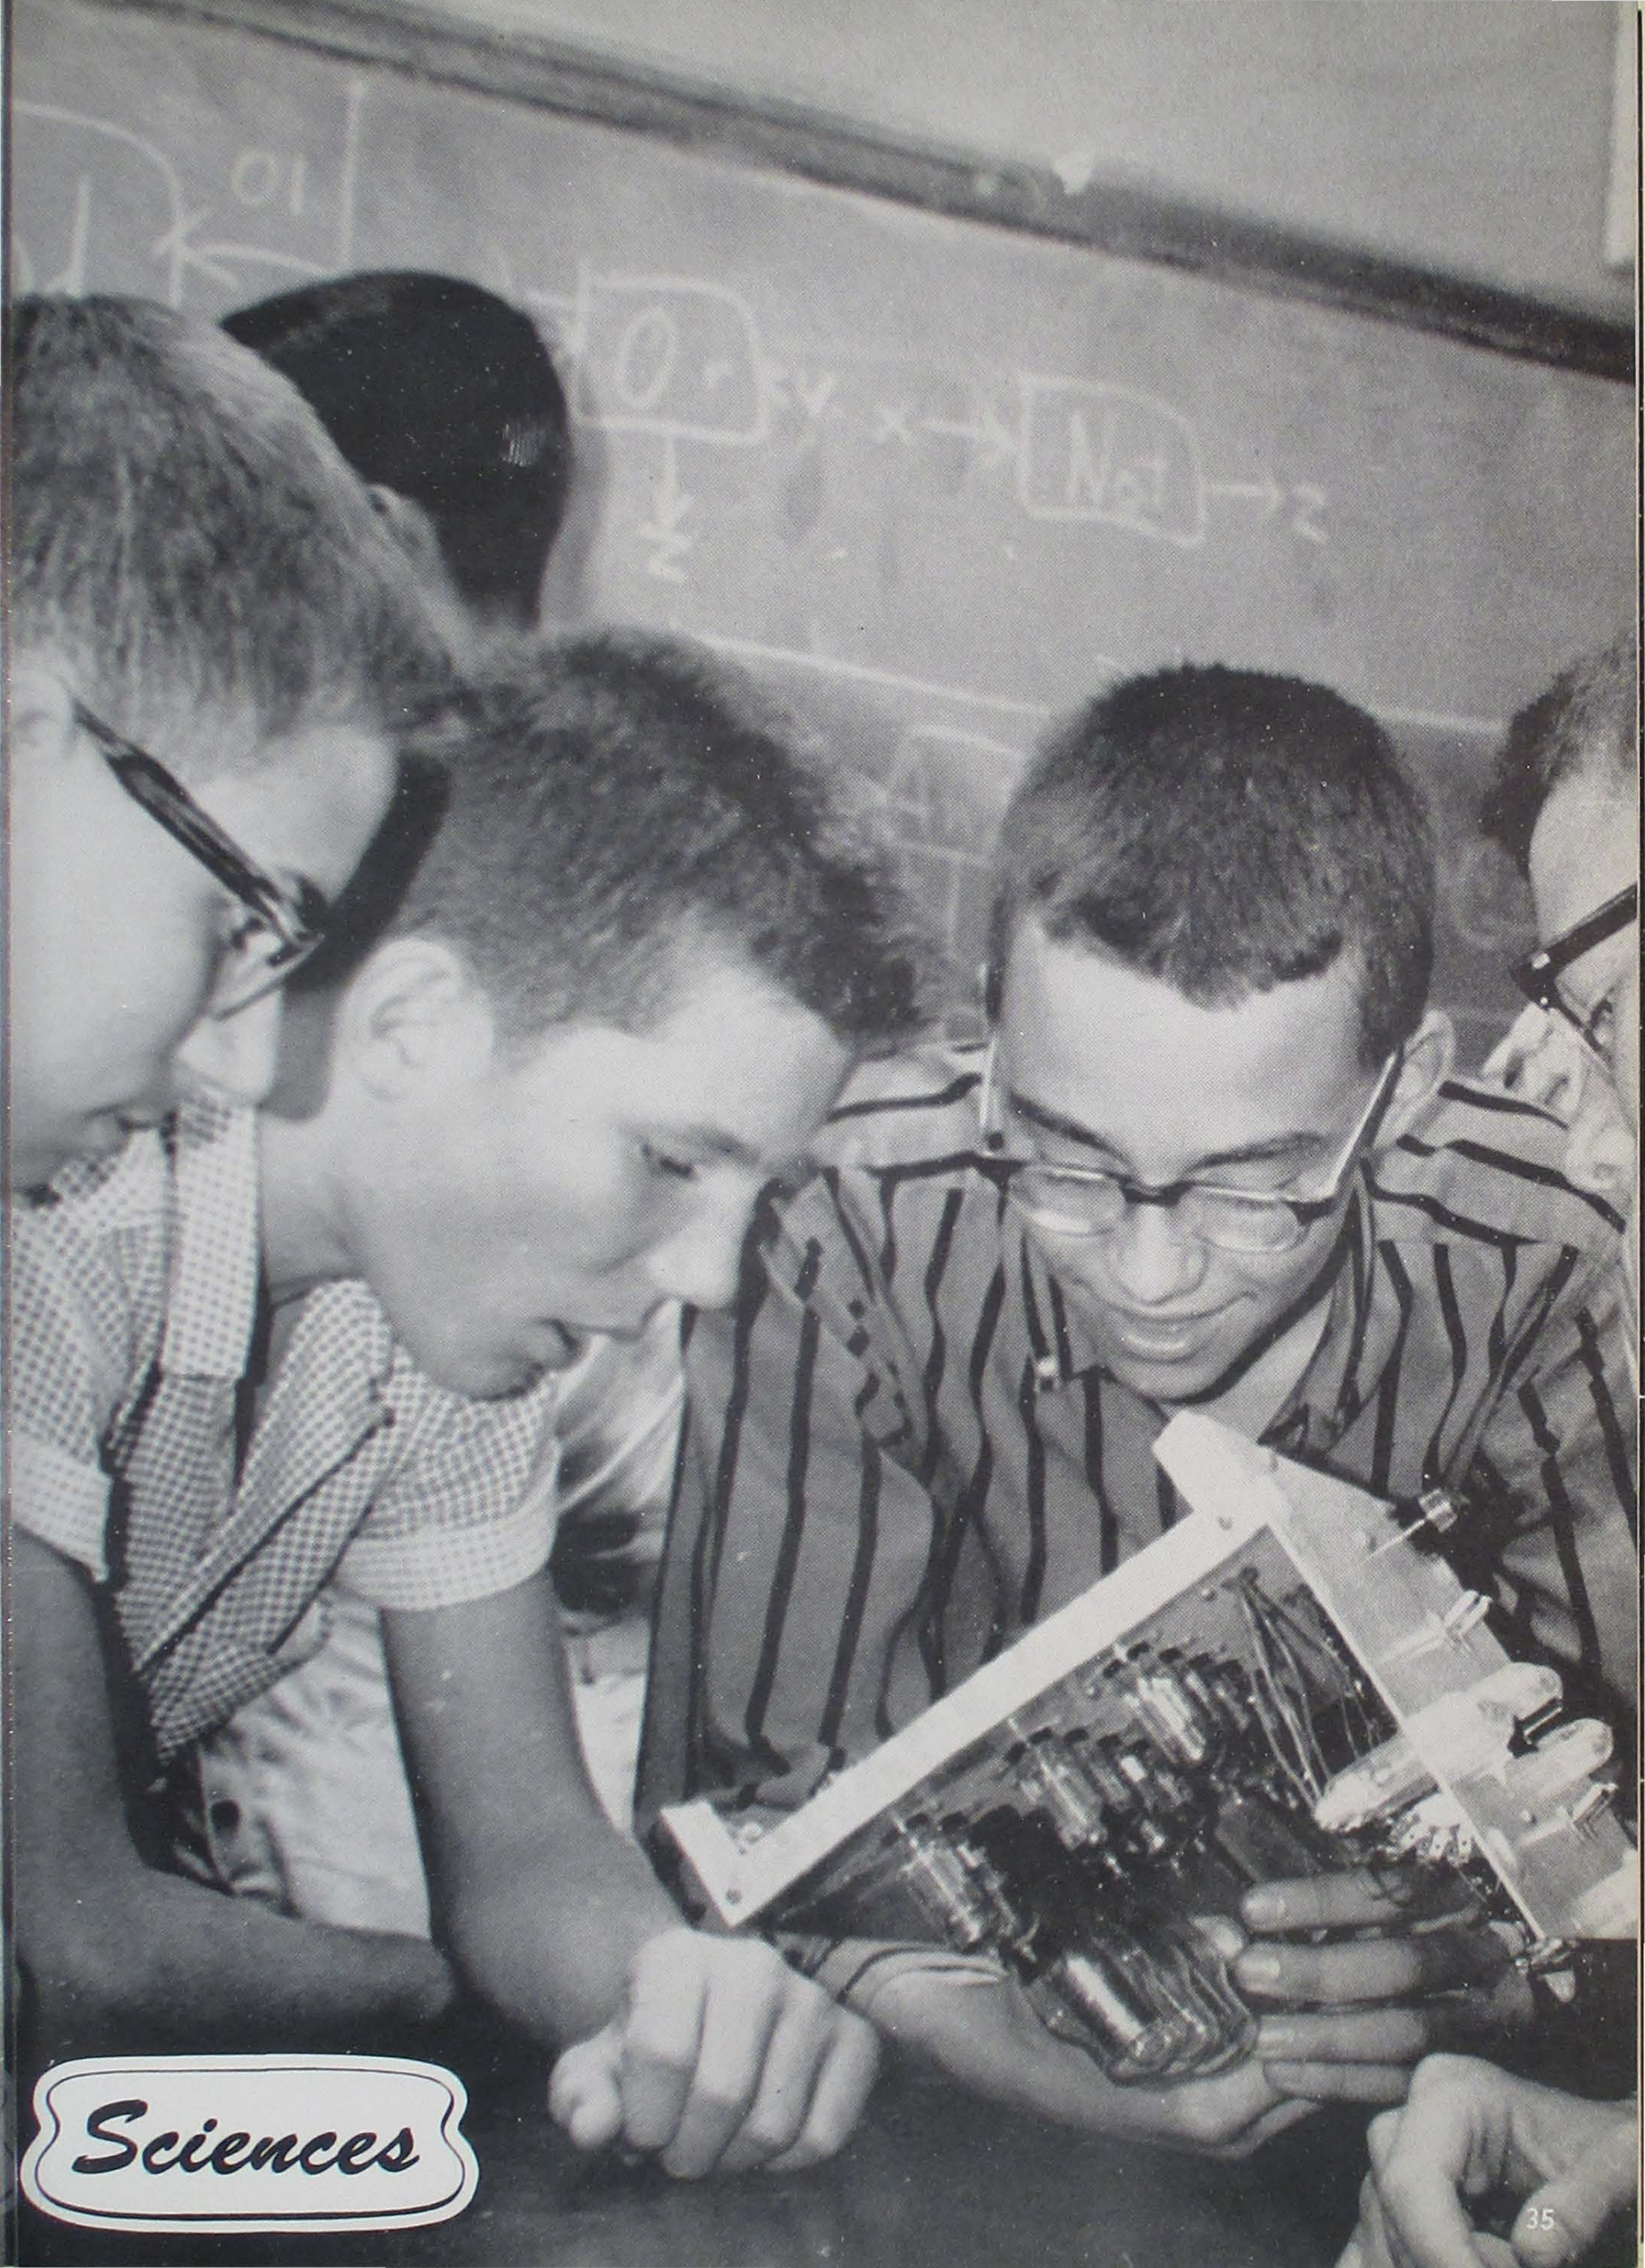

Four of this year's officers were: Sharon Lewis, president; Lissa Hall, vice president; and Judy Sawyer, secretary-treasurer.

Although they met together every Monday evening during the year, the Radio Club and the Science Club were separate organizations. The Radio Club, sponsored by Mr. Jim Jones, was mainly concerned in the design and construction of radio receivers and transmitters. The officers of this club were: Dave Morton, president; Dudley Chittenden, vice president; and Dick Kelso, secretary-treasurer.

The Science Club, sponsored by Mr. Floyd Sturtevant, provided opportunities to conduct research and carry out individual projects in general science. Officers of this club were: Ron Moses, president; Bernice Black, vice president; Charlene Anderson, secretary; and Ilo Leppik, treasurer.

The early birds of Ames High are the members of the Ames High band, starting practice daily at 7:50 a.m.

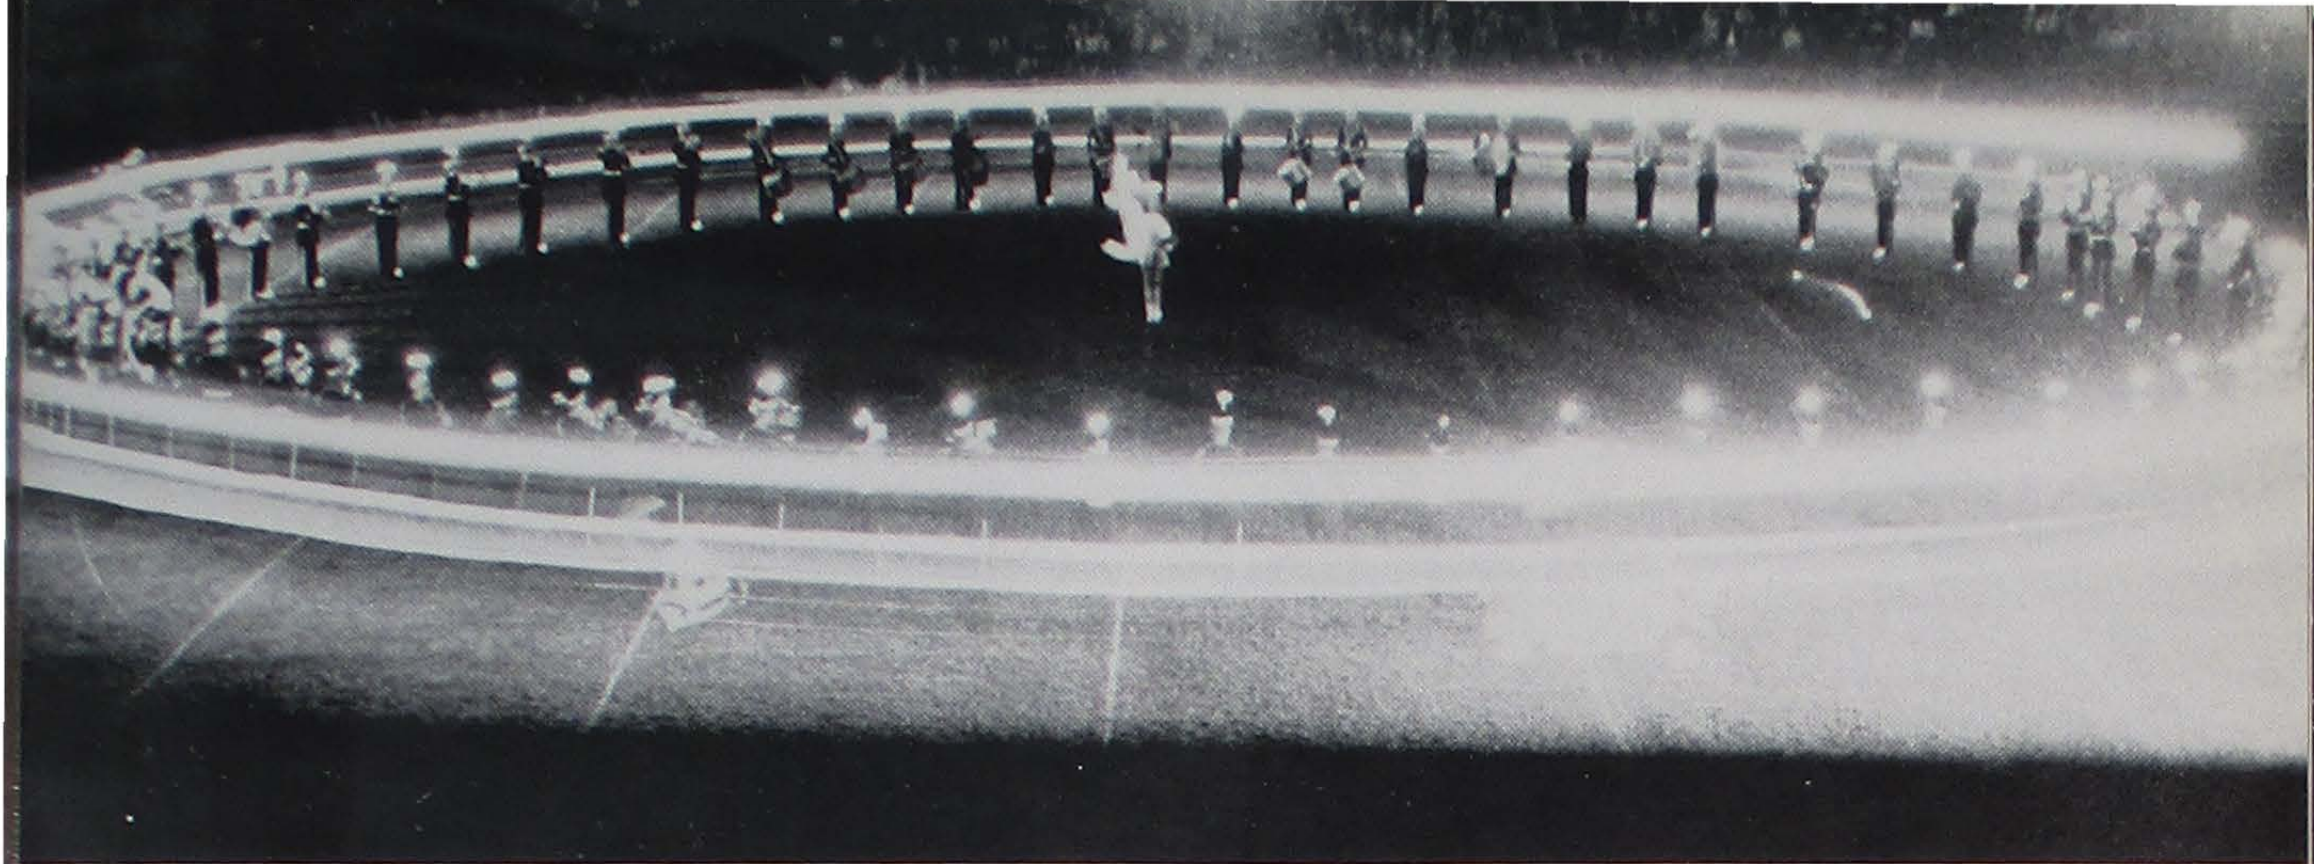

Gretchen Wildman, a junior trombonist, was the featured soloist for the annual spring concert on March 20. The Tri-City Festival, which includes Ames, Webster City and Fort Dodge, was held at Fort Dodge on April 7. Mr. Lucien Caillist, prominent composer and arranger, was the guest conductor. The band also played at assemblies for Welch Junior High and the high school.

One of the highlights at the football games was the half-time entertainment provided by the marching band.

Officers guiding the band were Earl Holtz, president; Jim Ayres, vice president; Mary McComb, secretary-treasurer; and Steve Henderson, librarian. Mr. Richard Day directed.

Adding a touch of jive to pep rallies and the basketball games was the pep band, with student directors Dave Keller and Jim E. Kelley.

Orchestra Council

Back: Lars Laslett, Sue Englehorn, Mr. Engelhardt. Front: Tom Timm, Margaret Shrader, Ilene Wardle, Janice Meier.

During sixth period often the music being played by the orchestra comes drifting out through the registers into each classroom. Anyone who has a background on a musical instrument and the desire to play is eligible to belong to this group. The purpose was to provide members with experience in the performance of orchestral literature—classical, modern, and popular. Performances, held under the direction of Mr. Engelhardt, were at the mid-winter concert, the Pops Concert in the spring, and at one of the assemblies. Money-making projects were the sale of book covers and candy.

Officers were: Tom Timm, president; Janice Meier, secretary-treasurer; Ilene Wrdle, vice president; and Sue Englehorn and Lars Laslett, librarians.

Judy Simpson, Sue Englehorn, Gretchen Wildman, Tom Timm, Nancy Anderson and Sally Howard were members of the string ensemble which played for dinner programs and other functions.

String Groups and Projects

Making up the string trio were Ilene Wardle, violin, Margaret Shrader, viola, and Pam Owings, cello.

Mixed Voices Blend in A Cappella Choir and Choruses

A select group of junior and senior voices comprises the Ames a cappella choir.

Wayne Cross, director, chooses members on the basis of their singing ability and cooperative attitude.

The choir sings at all school vocal concerts and for many outside groups. This calls for a wide repertoire of music. The group sang such songs as "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" by Brahms and "Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

Tom Gray, president; Judy Simpson, vice president; Judy Rah, secretary-treasurer; Steve Carr, librarian; and Jean Abbott and Lee Scheuermann, robekeepers, were the leaders of the choir.

Singers who performed at the All-State Festival on November 29 at the KRNT Theatre in Des Moines were Margaret Gibbs, Ellen Packer, Carey Poole, Jim Kelley, Rita Bappe, Linda Roach, Steve Henderson, Norman Iverson, Mark Anderson, Nancy Anderson, Sue Englehorn and Earl Holtz.

Although the units of the mixed choruses, sophomore and junior-senior practice as separate groups, they always sing together in public appearances.

The combined choruses sang for the Christmas program and Friendship Week. They participated in the annual Spring Concert.

Dave Chipman, president; Penney Welling, secretary-treasurer; Howard Judge, librarian; Sheila Porter and Steve Busch, robekeepers, headed the junior-senior mixed chorus.

The sophomore officers were Ann Fields, president; JoAnn Daniels, secretary-treasurer; Daye Childs, librarian; Tom Buchholtz and Kris Manning, robekeepers.

Glee Clubs Sing for Christmas, Friendship Week, Spring Program and Baccalaureate

Those girls who wished to be in a singing group were invited to join one of the four Girls' Glee Clubs. Various kinds of music were sung to widen the girls' acquaintance with music. These periods were arranged in such a manner that almost any girl would find a time that suited her. The four groups combined to sing at many public performances, some of which were the Christmas and spring programs, Friendship Week, and Baccalaureate. Presidents were Marilyn Blaess, Karyn Mullica, Mary Jane Walsh, and Mary Dresser.

For those boys who had the desire to sing simply for the enjoyment of it, there were three Boys' Glee Clubs. These different clubs met at various times so that any boy could find time that would fit into his schedule. For any public performance, all three Glee Clubs combined into one big group. The boys sang at the Christmas program, the spring program, and on various other occasions. Presidents of two of the groups were John Walkup and

"A sound mind in a sound body" is an old Greek philosophy that is as good today as it was then. Our classes of geometry, English, and chemistry are the means to a sound mind, and the Girls Athletic Association, best known as G.A.A., helps provide the sound body to carry out this axiom. Open to every girl in senior high, G.A.A. tries to develop the spirit of playing a game and provides a means for keeping the body in top physical shape.

Every Monday and Wednesday night this year the gym was open for the girls, and Mrs. Carol Lockhart supervised them in major and minor sports.

Intramural Captains Represent Homerooms on Council

"Athletics for all" was the aim of Ames High intramurals. Intramurals between the twenty-four homerooms of Ames High are planned primarily for boys not taking part in varsity sports. However, any boy in Ames High was eligible for intramurals provided he had not won an "A" in the sport or was a member of the sophomore, reserve or varsity teams.

Homeroom competition fell in three leagues: senior, junior and sophomore. Each homeroom played in its own division. A variety of sports, individual and team, were offered to the boys, who were represented by their homeroom captains on the intramural council.

Ninety-Seven Senior Girls in Pep Club

The girls dressed in black skirts and blouses or sweaters with orange jackets on game days are the members of the Pep Club.

Any senior girl who has passing grades in three subjects may join the club. This year 97 girls took active part in the organization, headed by Martha Howe, president, Mary Lee, vice president, Anne Easton, secretary, Janet Sills, treasurer, and Miss Dorothy DeHamer, sponsor.

It is the function of the Pep Club to add spirit to all athletic contests. Members also take part in pre-game and half-time activities. The marching unit performed with the marching band during football games. Ushers take tickets and help spectators find their seats.

A car wash and bake sale were among the money-making projects which helped to pay for trips to the Burlington football game and the Newton basketball game.

The 1958 Little Cyclones came out on top of the Central Iowa Conference for the sixth year in a row. To date, the Little Cyclones have won or tied 29 straight conference football games.

"Ames High had its toughest, longest schedule that I've seen," said Coach Kenny Wells.

This year Ames played teams from both sides of the state on their nine games schedule. The Cyclones went to the northwestern corner of the state to meet East Sioux City, and then to the southeast corner to play their first game with Burlington.

Tough Schedule

This season the Little Cyclones played several top rated teams. Des Moines Roosevelt, who was ranked first in the state, was scored against twice by Ames. The Cyclones played a particularly tough Homecoming game with highly rated West Waterloo.

The conference, as usual, was rugged this year. The Oskaloosa team, up for the game, gave the Cyclones a difficult time. Several times the Cyclones had to come from behind.

The team finished the season strong but it took awhile for them to get going. Wells praised the team for good spirit and drive.

Carole Walsh Queen of Homecoming '58

Queen Carole Walsh and her attendants, Ann Farber and Linda Roach, chosen from eleven candidates, reigned over Homecoming '58.

The anticipated moment came during a special pep assembly on Friday afternoon of the game when Larry Munson, Homecoming football captain, announced the queen and her attendants.

After the pep assembly the band led the Pep Club, the queen and her attendants, who rode in convertibles, and the football players, who rode on a float made by the Pep Club, in a parade downtown. The student body formed a snake dance down to the police station where Mayor Pearle DeHart gave a pep talk.

During the half-time of the game with West Waterloo, won by Ames, 26-20, the marching band provided a musical background for the crowning ceremonies.

The Homecoming dance, held at the Country Club was the finale to the festivities.

Spirit Sweetheart Barb Hoover Crowned at Dance

Highlight of the Spirit Dance, held January 17 in the study hall, was the crowning of Barb Hoover as Spirit Sweetheart. Her attendants, Ann Hensing and Frances McTague, were each given corsages. Theme of the dance, "Some Enchanted Evening," was carried out in the decorations of a small hut, Spanish moss hanging overhead, and murals of tropical birds, trees, and flowers.

Winner of the drawing for a free Spirit was Jim Brown.

Co-chairmen of the dance were Carol Black, assistant Spirit editor, and Linda Martin, assistant art editor. Master of ceremonies was Jim Ayres, Spirit sports editor.

A Cappella Choir, directed by Mr. Cross, sang for the third assembly of Friendship Week. At the right are Rev. Justad and devotions leaders Rev. Robert Larsen, Larry Munson, and Steve Burrell.

Friendship Week

*Innocence tugged her skirt and asked,
"When shall I be full-grown at last?"
Mother smiled, and stretched a hand,
"When you've grown up to God, into yourself,
And out to Man."*

From this poem Rev. J. Alan Justad, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Columbus, Neb., chose his theme "Fulfilling Life's Three Dimensions" for the 33rd Friendship Week.

"When we finally fit into place where God wants us, our lives will be successful," said Rev. Justad, in stressing the development of our inward, outward, and upward growth.

Friendship Week began Jan. 26. Each year it is set aside to consider moral and spiritual values which "exalt and refine life and bring it into accord with the standards of conduct approved in our democratic culture when applied to human behavior."

On Monday teachers and students, meeting in 22 huddle groups, discussed such matters as gossip, smoking, existence of afterlife and ways of finding God. On Friday the huddle groups met to evaluate the ideas developed during the week.

Conferences, class forums, a staff tea, and Girl Reserve and Hi-Y cabinet and representative meetings were scheduled in order to provide opportunities for individuals to meet Pastor Justad and to ask questions.

Students ham it up for their parents and the camera at Back-to-School Night.

Back-to-School Night Part of American Education Week

During American Education Week it has become a custom of all the schools in Ames to invite the parents in to meet the teachers of their children and see their school environment. The occasion at Ames High occurs on Back-to-School Night. This year students came back to school the night of Thursday, November 13, with their parents. They then went through their Friday morning class schedule just as if it were Friday morning. In this way the parents had a chance to become acquainted with the place in which their children had been spending seven hours every day, even though the situation was far from normal.

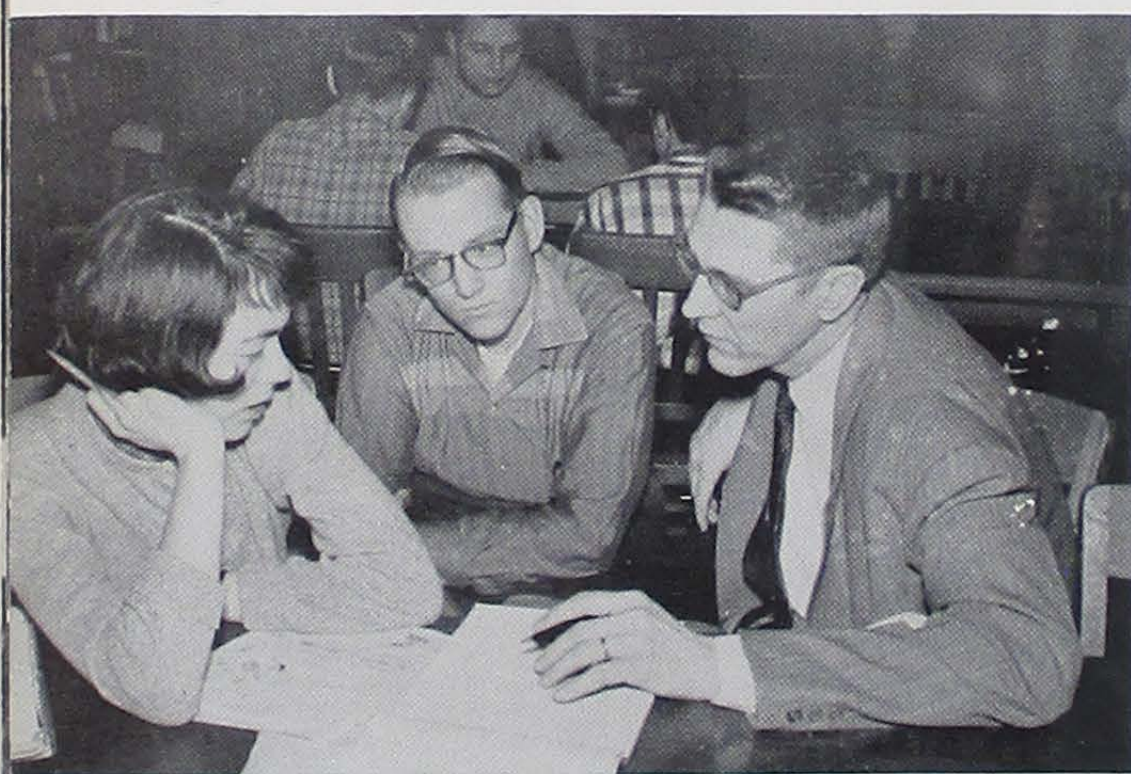

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria to those of the 825 parents and 700 students who had study halls as one of their classes. At 9:15 everyone passed to the auditorium where the Student Council held a meeting to show the student government in action. After the assembly students and teachers alike went home; the students to collapse in their beds after nine hours of classes, and the parents to sigh in relief that they were no longer students.

Science Seminar for Superior Students

Superior science students had a chance to "stretch their minds" in a new non-credit activity at Ames High. The Science Seminar, organized in December, is coordinated by the science teachers with the help of about twenty Ames scientists.

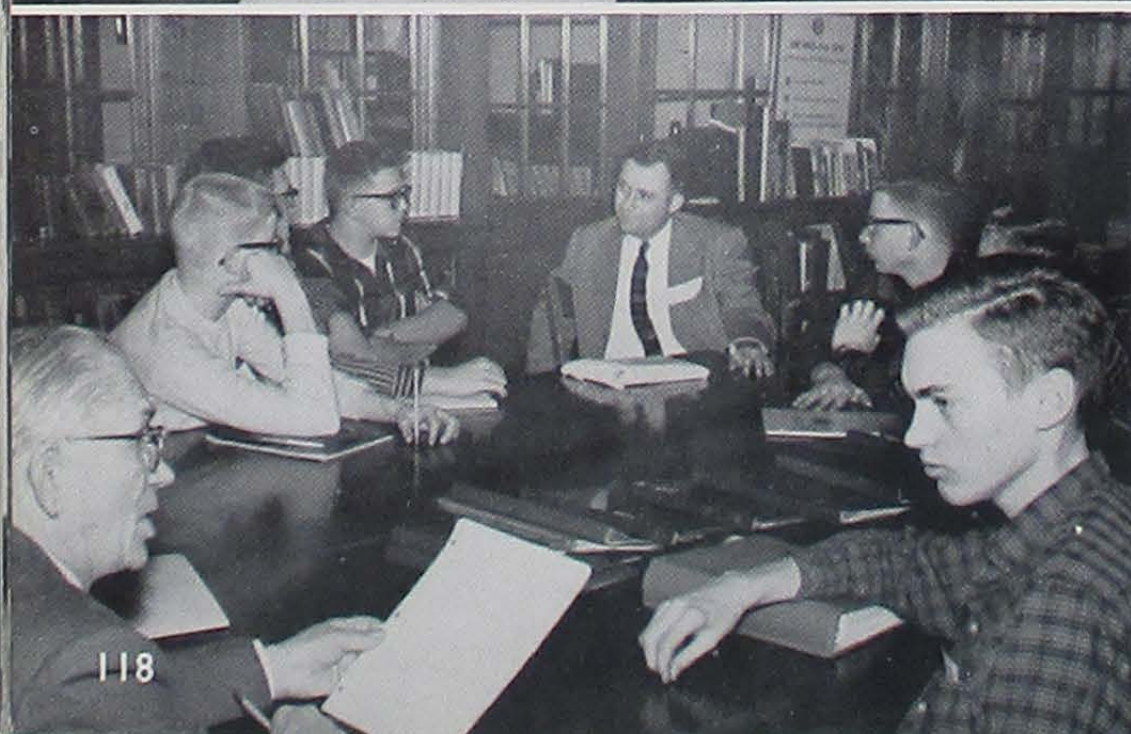

Out of about fifty applicants, 26 students were selected for the Seminar. Basis for the selection was a special test in science and mathematics, along with high school grades and tests scores that were already available.

The Seminar met Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. Regular attendance and participation were required for students to remain in the program. Some of the lessons presented were A Preview of Calculus, Catalysis, Carbohydrate Metabolism, The Structure of Wood, Understanding Probability, and Electronic Computers. Besides presenting lectures and leading discussions, the staff members advised the students on personal projects.

An advisory council, elected by the staff, helped the Ames High science teachers in planning the Seminar program. The council included Dr. J. E. McFarland, Dr. Percy Carr, and Richard Kniseley.

Spring Scenes

Principal Herbert Adams read the roll call as 189 Ames High Seniors received their diplomas.

189 Seniors Graduated

Baccalaureate May 24 and commencement May 27 finished a busy year for 189 Ames High seniors.

The class sermon, "A Plea for Excellence," was delivered by the Rev. John F. Ryan of St. Cecilia's Church. He listed the qualities needed in our lives to fulfill this plea.

Dr. J. W. Ylvisaker, president of Luther College in Decorah, chose "Wanted: Pioneers," as the theme of his commencement speech. He described the opportunities and the necessity for pioneering in the present and the future in our relationships with people, places and things.

The class officers were Clarke Pasley, president; Gregg Gammack, vice president; Bonnie Hazel, secretary; and Carey Poole, treasurer.

Diplomas in hand, the Class of 1959 marches across the field after commencement ceremonies.

Senior Class Produced "The Ponder Heart"

"The Ponder Heart," produced by the senior class, played to the largest opening night audience in Ames High history.

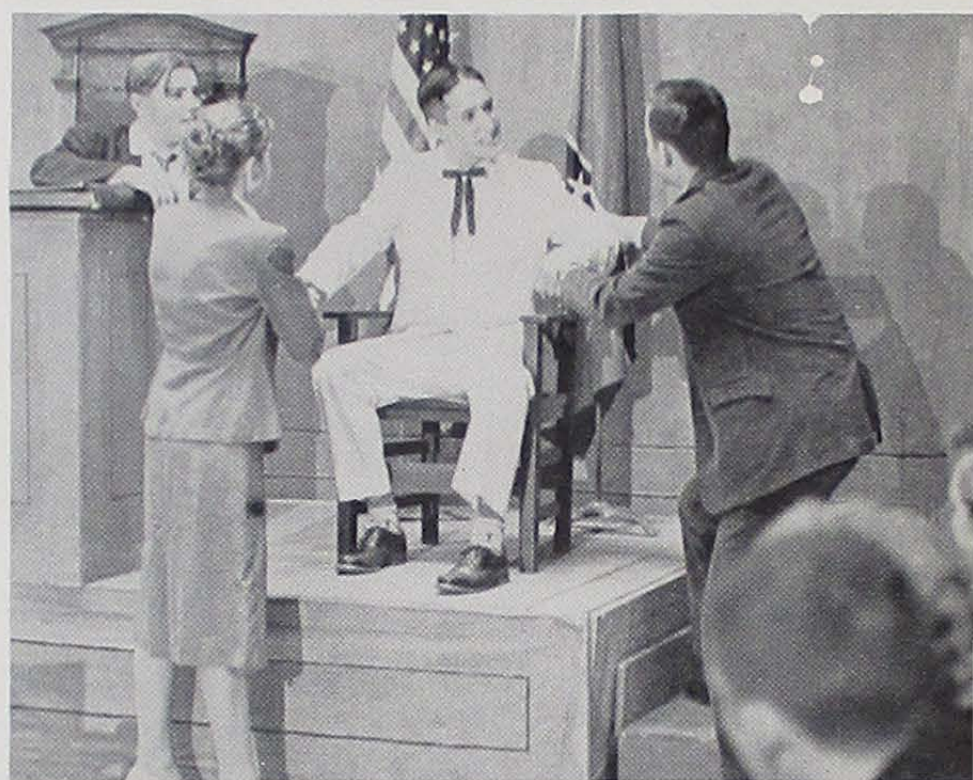

Written by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chederov, the play is an amusing account of the 90-day trial marriage contracted by Daniel Ponder and Bonnie Dee Peacock.

The cast of 40 was under the direction of Robert Hamilton, Ames High drama coach, assisted by Mrs. Aurilla P. Vegors and Mary Ann Schweitzer.

At two assemblies during the final weeks of school, awards were given for participation and achievement in music, drama, stenography, typing, debate, art, G.A.A., intramural sports and track.

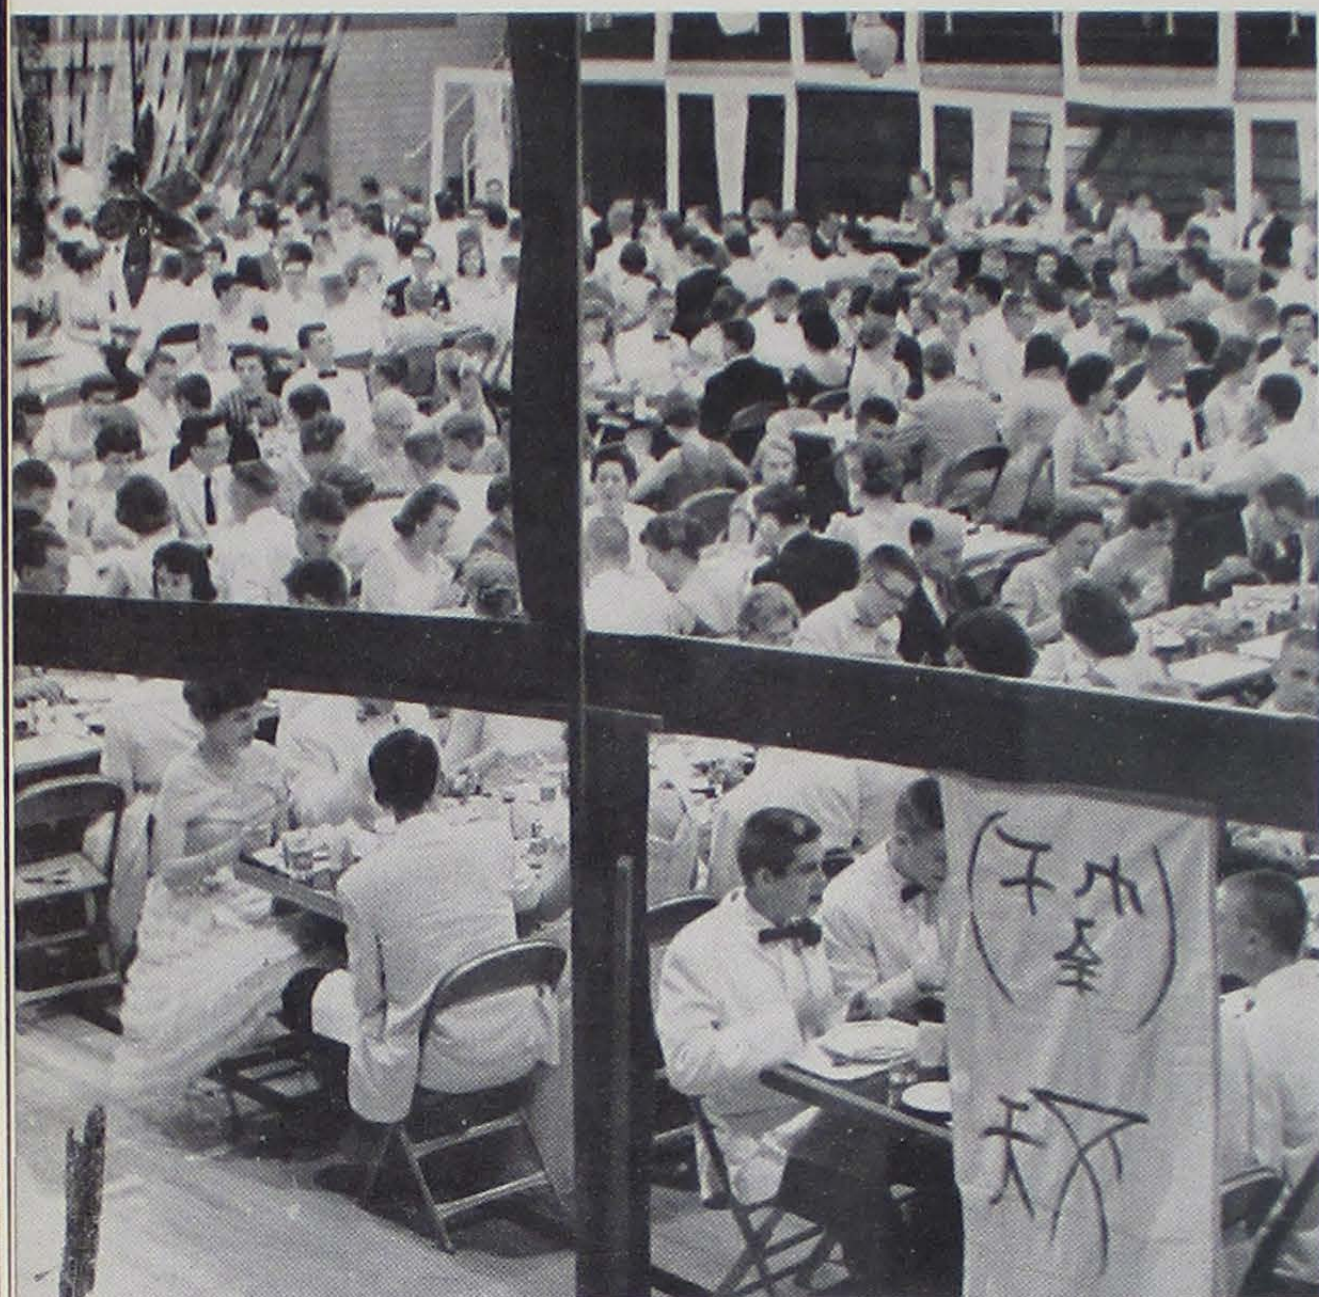

Special awards went to John Chamberlin, Lars Laslett, and Victor Randecker for high scholarship in American history.

Margaret Shrader placed first and Barbara Calhoun second in the United Nations test.

Stewart Cott earned an award and certificate of merit for national achievement in the art contest sponsored by Scholastic Magazine.

Seniors Were Guests at "Sayonara Serenade"

An Oriental atmosphere was the background for "Sayonara Serenade," with Japanese lanterns and imitation flowers as decorations and dancing to the music of Ralph Zarnow.

The annual junior-senior frolic, at which the juniors traditionally host the seniors, was held May 2 in the Ames High gym. Entertainment for everyone followed the dinner, and non-dancers watched movies in the auditorium.

The prom was over at midnight, but the juniors were guests at a parent-Moose sponsored party and the seniors were entertained by the Elks until early morning.

Palm Club Is Top Drama Group

Bruce Stebbins, Theo Strannigan and Tom Smith were in the cast of "Moon Up," which was selected for showing with the Iowa State Lab Theatre one-act plays.

Palm Club is the honor group of the Ames High drama department, promoting participation in drama productions. New members are initiated each semester.

Officers of the club this year were Margie Gibbs, president; Karlyn Peterson, vice president; Sherri Wiersen, secretary; and Lory Linder, treasurer.

Three one-act plays, "Moon Up," "Love Song" and "The Dear, Dear Children" were produced by the members of drama club and Palm Club. The plays were student-directed under the supervision of Robert Hamilton, head of the department, and provided an opportunity for many to participate.

Royalty reigned at the Ames High Invitational Track Meet May 1. From left, Fran McTague and Alice Andre, attendants; Linda Roach, queen; Karlyn Peterson and Carol Brindley, attendants.

Blaine Zenor and Clarke Pasley move up to first and second positions against Marshalltown and North High runners in the half mile run.

Track Queen

The 1959 Ames High track queen and her four attendants were chosen from a field of ten senior girls.

Nominees were Alice Andre, Marilyn Blaess, Carol Brindley, Ann Farber, Mary Susan Lee, Fran McTague, Karlyn Peterson, Sandy Peterson, Linda Roach and Sherri Wiersen.

Ames High won the annual meet with 127½ points. North of Des Moines had 100½ points and Marshalltown, 70.
